

No front cover of your zine

PAGE 1

This is a zine template for making an 8-page mini-zine with Pages on the Mac. The text boxes have borders to show the margins and foldlines; these can be turned off, or altered, in Format > Style. Replace the text with your own, and maybe add some pictures! Add a second page and print double-sided if you need even more space. You'd be surprised how much you can fit in a mini-zine with just one piece of paper. Once you've mastered this template, you'll want to make a zine every week!

back cover

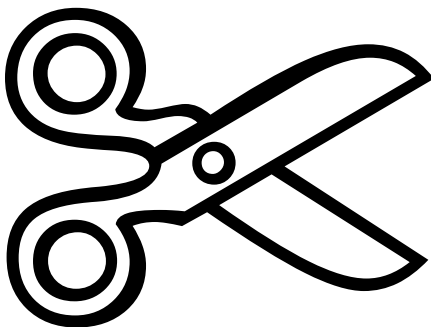

YOUR NAME & WEBSITE
GO HERE

This template was designed and written by Jess Driscoll. You can find everything I made at jessdriscoll.com.

PAGE 2

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Mauris in blandit nisl. Fusce tristique sapien in lobortis condimentum. Quisque vitae elementum metus, non malesuada justo. Cras vel orci sit amet leo facilisis efficitur. Cras dapibus sem eros, eget fringilla diam fermentum ut. Maecenas non eros et nibh cursus blandit. Suspendisse sagittis, dolor vitae egestas sagittis, metus velit lacinia neque, vel tempus erat leo eu dolor. Etiam nec nisl a nibh consectetur egestas id ut metus.

PAGE 3

PAGE 6

The hardest part is starting. But I bet that as soon as you put your fingers on the keyboard, words will fall out. And then you just keep writing until you get to the end of the page. You'll be done before you know. In fact, you'll probably want more pages.

If you've been on the internet for any length of time, you've written more than enough words to fill a zine—in Instagram captions, in FB statuses, in tweets. Not everything will transfer well to print, but it's fun to try!

PAGE 4

- some ideas for zines:
- document a week of outfits, meals, dogs you saw
- write about your favourite albums, movies, books
- publish the best tweets you wrote over the last 14 years
- wrote a very short story
- explain the history of zines or the oldest building in your city, province, country
- document the best live show you ever saw, complete with setlist
- draw every bird you see in a day, week, or month
- teach us how to cook something delicious

PAGE 5

Pellentesque vel accusan nunc. Sed id risus a magna sagittis commodo. In vestibulum neque sed aliquet ultricies sem cursus, venenatis volutpat magna commodo. Aliquam erat purus, commodo at tellus imperdiet, malesuada pulvinar magna.

Etiam sagittis vel dolor in molestie. Integer convallis sit amet felis at hendrerit. Aenean dapibus ex aliquet eros lacinia iaculis. Nulla dictum arcu eget erat elementum cursus. Integer ut lacinia risus.